Item No.: LM8268

All-in-one PC

This PC represents a modern all-in-one computer which perfectly supplements the multimedia side of the training system. The advantage of such an all-in-one PC is its high degree of flexibility combined with outstanding performance. The PC has all the features of a modern desktop computer but also combines them with all the necessary peripherals (display and controls) in a single case. Additional cables (mouse, keyboard and screen) are not needed, meaning that the place where you work is neater looking and tidier. In addition the computer is preinstalled with the latest version of the Windows operating system. The all-in-one PC can be connected directly to your training system by means of a monitor holder, which is most practical.

